

In Loving Memory of “Beamer”

(Blackheath’s Distill My Heart)
March 6, 2006 – January 3, 2009

Beamer Hammond of Kingston, Washington crossed over The Rainbow Bridge Saturday afternoon after being attacked by a very aggressive form of cancer known as Hemangiosarcoma. Beamer was the son of Blackheath’s Maxx and Sugar. After being expelled from formal school, he was home-schooled by his mortal parents Dave and Lynn Hammond. Upon graduation, Beamer enjoyed a short, but extremely successful, career of counter surfing and toilet slurping. His hobbies included pilfering fresh baked goods and uprooting anything recently placed into potting soil. Beamer was very fond of long walks on the beach with his sister (in a West Virginia kind of way) Tessie, also of the famed Blackheath line. His evenings were often spent with his big beautiful black nose on Dave’s lips. Of his many talents, his greatest one was melting hearts. Survivors include Tessie, Dave, Lynn, his mortal brother Kyle O’Brien and countless other devoted admirers. Services will be private, and will be held on a daily basis for many years to come.
